

assist by directing people away from entrances and keep access paths free for emergency services. Persons may only return to the building when advised to do so.